THE SOUTH AND THE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT. - The proposed Constitutional Amendment excludes from all offices, civil and military, under the U.S. or under any State, every Southern man who, "having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the U.S. or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the U.S. shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given and and comfort to the enemies thereof."-This excludes the best intellects and the purest characters of the South. To reconcile the Southern people to this exclusion, and to prevail upon them to ratify the amendment, they are told that they "were led into the secession movement, with all its miseries, by the misrepresentations and treasonable devices" of these mon, and they are, therefore, called upon to punish and dishonor them. This is the Radical argument, and it is gravely addressed to the Southern people. Have we fallen so loc-after going, with our minds fully informed and our eyes fully open, into secession, and after calling such men as Lee, Beauregard and Johnston to lead us-as to be capable, under as much ours as theirs, and the Southern | Enquire of people will never be so base as to purchase agreeing to ostracise and dishonor the soldiers who fought their battles. If such a Constitutional Amandment can be agreed without our e carried without our

MORE THAN THEY BARGAINED FOR .- The constitutional amendment is advocated by the Rulicals on the ground that it will equalize renresentation in Congress. George F. Comstock, Eso, an effective Conservative stumper in New York, calls upon them to join hands with him in securing a more general equalization of represensation. He points to the case of the New England States. Their whole population numbers some 3,000,000, while New York alone has over 4,000,000. Yet New England los twelve Senators and New York only two. Nor is this all. In any cease where an election of President goes to the House of Representatives, New England, under the Constitution as it now stands, easts six votes, while New York easts only one. Thus each man in New England has five times as much political power as each man in New York. Rhode Island has one electoral vote to every forty-five thousand people, while New York has one to each one hundred and odd thousand. If the discussion of this constitutional amendment shall result in causing New England to be shorn of the power which she has used to oppress all the rest of the Union, we shall not regret that it was commenced. It will be the old story petand."-Rich. Dispatch.

to his friends in Richmond concerning the "Constitutional Amendment," proposed to the South. He speaks strongly but truly. He

"It will not better your condition; no, it will make it infinitely worse, because its ratification apply to will degrade you, not only in your own estimation, but also in that of all who value the right tion, but also in that of all who value the right of self-government the world over. They want guarantees! You have already given all the FORTABLE DWELLING, situated dignity of human nature. But this guarantee business is a SWINDLE; its intent is not at all what the meaning of the word implies, but in plain English it is this: 'We want you to surrender a portion of your right of self-government into our hands, and according as you are Weakened we shall be strengthened in tyrannical power. Thus shall we be enabled to gain full control of the government, and you shall become our serfs forever!' Guarantees!-what marantee have you, when you accept the 'amendment,' that you will then have the di-Binished representation it would give you?he not the more outspoken of their leaders say You shall not? Have they not deceived you elten enough already.'
